Where does this money come from?

Communities can access funds which SSE have made available on a voluntary basis near each of its renewable energy developments.

SSE created the Sustainable Development Fund as part of its community benefit arrangements from its onshore renewable energy developments in Scottish Borders primarily the Clyde wind farm extension in the Clyde Valley.

What can the grants be used for?
What are the aims of the fund?

The fund is to be used to provide support for strategic projects in the regions in which we are investing. The following themes have been established for the Scottish Borders region and any successful application must meet one or more of the following outcomes:

- Creating opportunities: Create or enhance opportunities for education and employment through activities that develop skills and improve an individual's chance of entering the workplace.
- Empowering communities: Empower communities to become more resilient and protect vulnerable residents through measures which demonstrate long-term social, environmental or economic improvements.
- Sustainable places: Stimulate meaningful regeneration to improve or enhance local infrastructure, landscape, biodiversity or heritage and make a lasting difference to the places we live, work and visit.

Successful projects will have the potential to make a significant and sustainable difference to people within the region. For example, initiatives which combat the effects of rural isolation, developing local energy projects, establishing an apprenticeship scheme, or projects which generate income to provide communities with long term revenue streams.

How do I apply?

If your project meets the fund criteria, please complete and submit an application form, which can be requested from SSE or downloaded from <https://sse.com/communities/sustainablefund/>

You must include a business plan with your application.

We encourage potential applicants to contact the SSE Community Investment Team prior to completing an application to discuss if your project meets the fund criteria.

How much is the fund worth?
How much can I apply for?

In this first round, the overall fund is worth £200,000.

You can apply for funding from £10,000 up to a maximum of the fund’s total value.

In exceptional circumstances, we may consider applications up to 100% of total costs but would encourage groups to leverage other external funding towards the project. This will strengthen your chance of an award from the fund.

The timing of future rounds are yet to be decided and the scale is dependent on SSE’s renewable development plans.

What is the timetable?

Round opens	9 April 2019
Deadline for full applications	25 July 2019 (12pm)
Panel decisions	October 2019
Awards made	October 2019

- We will contact you within four weeks of the panel meeting date to let you know whether your application has been successful or not.
- Applications received after the deadline will not be eligible.
- Applicants can only receive one grant award per round. Whilst subsequent applications can be made in future rounds, the funding cannot support repeat activity and should not be considered as core funding.

How are decisions made?
Who makes the decisions?

The SSE Sustainable Fund Panel will review applications and determine which projects should receive funding. The panel comprises:

- Rt Hon Lord Jack McConnell (Chairperson)
- Professor Jan Bebbington Professor of Sustainable Development, University of St Andrews
- Damien Yeates Chief Executive, Skills Development Scotland
- Professor James Hunter Emeritus Professor of History, UHI
- Arlene Bowman, SSE Renewables

How will the panel assess my application?

The panel will review the application based on its relevance to the priority themes identified above and appraise the social, economic and environmental impact it could have to the local area. This will be the primary form of assessment.

It is important to bear in mind that the panel will be looking for projects with the potential for transformational change.

Additional consideration will be given to projects that demonstrate:

- Value for money – evidence that the project has a high impact for the amount invested
- Community involvement – evidence that the community is engaged in the development and implementation of the project. This may be in the form of surveys, service user involvement, community consultations, open days, letters of support or volunteering opportunities.
- Financial viability – evidence that the project will be maintained beyond the period of grant funding
- Evidence of need - demonstration of a real financial need for the application and evidence that the applicant has leveraged other sources of external funding

Only groups from the immediate local area to the development are eligible to apply. Groups that are eligible to apply to SSE's local community funds are also eligible to apply to the Sustainable Development Fund.
